Panel rejects LePage nominee to UMS board
By ALANNA DURKIN
AUGUSTA — A Democratic-led Maine legislative panel rejected one of Republican Gov. Paul LePage's nominees to the University of Maine System Board of Trustees on Friday after several people raised concerns about views she'd shared on her online blog and one professor accused her of plagiarism.

The Education and Cultural Affairs Committee voted 8-6 along party lines to reject Susan Dench's nomination to the 16-member board, which makes policy and budget decisions for the system's 14-campus system.

It was the first time the committee has ever rejected a governor's pick for the board, said LePage spokesman Adrienne Bennett, who accused Democrats of playing partis-nan politics.

The full Senate will consider Dench's nomination and that of James Donnelly Bennett, who accused Democrats of playing partis-nan politics.
