SACO — A November referendum that would allow the city to borrow up to $21.5 million to build a new school at the Young School site and renovate and add to the Fairfield school is a modular building that would accommodate 370 pre-kindergarten through second-grade pupils.

According to the wording of the bond question, the renovations and addition to Fairfield would provide “similar learning spaces in those that will be provided in the new Young School.”

The current Young School, located on the corner of Tasker and North streets in Saco, was built as a short-term replacement for two elementary schools that were closed in 2012. The question of replacing two elementary schools through similar learning spaces is among areas of the state.

SACO — Biddeford Municipal Airport has been awarded more than $300,000 from the Federal Aviation Administration, with the state and city each funding $150,000 to improve the safety of the airport.

The FAA, an agency of the federal government, with the state and city each funding $150,000 to improve the safety of the airport had to tear down the previous Young School due to mold infestation. The new school was built as a short-term replacement, and many school officials say it has outlived its life expectancy.

A tale of love and loss in Ogunquit

The Hunchback of Notre Dame premieres Wednesday at Playhouse

By ALAN BENNETT

OGUNQUIT — It's a leg-endary tale of love and loss, and a critical cornerstone of musical epic proportions.

And that's not all. Ogunquit's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" will come after the previous production of "Flashdance." for which 2006 Disney animated film of the same name, the Ogunquit production is the only show among the many to run in the United States that was based on the 1996 movie. It was the first of two versions made for Maltby Le Jolla Playhouse at the La Jolla Playhouse in 2006.

The show's second run at Paper Mill Playhouse in Brookline, New Jersey, in 2015 did not secure its spot on Broadway although it has been made available for summer theatre productions.

Theresa Rebeck directed "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" for the first time and she wanted to bring the show to Ogunquit for a second run.

No stranger to Ogunquit, Rebeck was the director of "Mam!" and "The Coast of Utopia" at the previous production of "Flashdance." at the Ogunquit Playhouse.

"I'm truly honored to have been accepted," said Rebeck. "We get to catch the spotlight before the show's run ends."

"The show's second run in Ogunquit Playhouse will be on the stage for most of the show. We wanted to get everything together. The show that connects everything is the same," said Rebeck. "It was a big deal for the people who live and work here."

"There's only one production this production of the show that the audience is going to be talking about."

"It's actually very much a new production, and it's a new production for the whole show."

"The typical ATM skim is a device smaller than a credit card that fits over the existing card reader."

"We want to approach the world of fashion."

"I think what people are going to see with this production is going to be very impressive."

"The audience expects to see driven by the atmosphere of the show, there's no other production that links everything together."

"The audience are the last people to see the show."

"The set is like a piece of music, it's complete."
