INNOVATION FOR A HEALTHIER PLANET

The University of New England is proud to offer both basic and advanced general movement assessment courses. Research conducted in the last 20 years has shown that the qualitative assessment of spontaneous movement in the fetus, newborn, and young infant is an early and reliable indicator for diagnosis and prognosis of neurological disorders. Compelling evidence shows that qualitative assessment of General Movements (GMs) — a specific type of spontaneous movement — under the age of five months is the best predictor of cerebral palsy. This course fulfills the standards specified by the General Movements Trust (www.general-movements-trust.info). The course will consist of lessons, demonstration, and discussions of video recordings. Lectures will alternate with exercises in small groups discussing videos prepared by the tutors. At the end of the course, participants will be required to take a final test to receive a certificate of reliability in this method of assessment. Participants registering for the advanced course must complete the basic training course prior to attending the advanced course. Advanced course participants will learn more detailed scoring systems and have the opportunity to review their own recordings with a tutor.

BASIC COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to

- Understand the theoretical basis of Prechtl's Method of Qualitative Assessment of General Movements.
- Assess typically developing infants using the Qualitative Assessment of General Movements.
- Assess infants with brain lesions using the Qualitative Assessment of General Movements.
- Incorporate this technique for clinical and research purposes.
- Reliably distinguish typical versus atypical general movements.

ADVANCED COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to

- Understand the optimality concept and detailed assessment of general movements.
- Assess the components of GMs (speed, amplitude, intensity, rotations, etc.) during the preterm and term age and evaluate the individual trajectory.
- Assess fidgety movements and the concurrent motor repertoire (movements and postures) in 3- to 5-month-old infants.
- Discuss their own recordings.

TARGET AUDIENCE

The target audience includes neonatologists, pediatric neurologists, general pediatricians, developmental and behavioral pediatricians, and physical and occupational therapists. For additional information about these courses, please contact the course coordinator, Eileen Ricci, at (207) 221-4588 or ericci@une.edu.

ACCREDITATION AND CREDIT DESIGNATION

The University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine (UNE COM) is accredited by the American Osteopathic Association (AOA) and the Maine Medical Association's Council on Continuing Medical Education and Accreditation (MMA CCMEA) to provide continuing medical education for physicians. The AOA Council on Continuing Medical Education has approved each of these courses for a maximum of 21.5 hours of AOA Category 2A CME credits. UNE COM designates this educational activity for a maximum of 21.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™ and 21.5 University of New England contact hours for non-physicians. Contact hours may be submitted by non-physician, non-PA health professionals for continuing education credits.

Physicians and other attendees should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in this activity. UNE, upon receipt of the completed and signed contact hours form, will submit the osteopathic credits to the AOA. This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas and Policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint sponsorship of UNE COM and UNE-WCHP-CPE.

EDUCATIONAL GRANTS/COMMERCIAL SUPPORT

This CME-certified activity has not requested or received any support or funding from commercial interests. This includes, but is not limited to, pharmaceutical companies and medical device manufacturers.
